

Vowell's sentence is six years

Charlotte Smith
Editor

Former Fulton County Schools Chief Financial Officer Julie Vowell appeared in court for the last time on Thursday, Aug. 14 for her sentencing hearing. Vowell accepted a plea agreement back on June 26 from "Abuse of Public Trust under $100,000."

Last Thursday she was sentenced to six years for the lesser charge. Vowell's sentence included restitution in the amount of $125,000, which included a restitution fee of 6% ($6,250) and court cost of $150.

Fulton County Schools Superintendent Aaron Collins, present during Vowell's sentencing hearing, did address the court. During Collins' impact statement it was noted that the school district is still feeling the after effects of Vowell's actions between 2009 and October 2013.

The district has paid $32,000 in IRS penalties. The county found out last week that over $100,000 was mismanaged in Fund 2 under Ms. Vowell's tenure as CFO and the district is still facing the possibility of up to $300,000 in finances for not filling W-2's properly with the IRS in 2011 and 2012.

"I appreciate the patience of the community as we promised the constituents of Fulton County Schools that we would do a complete forensic audit and then strive for restitution and the school board has worked diligently towards that commitment and are striving to be proficient and good stewards of the taxpayers' monies," commented Supt. Collins.

Vowell was immediately placed in custody following her hearing and is currently lodged in the Fulton County Detention Center.

MISSING MAN TABLE CEREMONY - On Saturday, Aug. 16 a Missing Man Table Ceremony was conducted prior to the beginning of the Grand Opening of the Museum at the Carnegie Library and the Hickman Chamber of Commerce's Ice Cream Social and Cake Auction. As Jim Phelps with Rolling Thunder speaks on our POWs/MIAs (left) spoke he described the meaning of the items on the special table. Roger's Tire and Lube closes its doors

Charlotte Smith

"I just wanted to give the people of Hickman a place to go," stated Roger Gordon owner/operator of Roger Lube & Tire on Monday afternoon as he contemplated shutting his business down. Roger opened in Hickman on November 1, 2001, almost 13 years ago. He officially closed his doors on Friday, Aug. 15.

"I have built a working relationship with many of the people in Hickman over the years," Gordon added. "It was built on trustworthiness and always at a fair price."

Born and raised in Fulton County, Gordon says it has been a hard decision to make. "I know there are many who rely on me and I am going to miss servicing their vehicles for them," he said. "Family obligations have led me to this difficult decision."

"I have always been a hands on working fellow," Gordon said sadly. "It is sad to leave the people, but it needs to be done."

Married to Judy Gordon for almost 46 years, Roger needs to be at home taking care of her. "It is better to finally wind it up, call it quits and go home."

Mr. Bill Everett, 91-year-old Hickman resident, who still drives is one of the many who rely on Gordon to service his vehicle. "I will miss people like Mr. Bill," said Gordon.

It's hard to tell how many people Gordon has helped keep their vehicles in working order since 2001.

As another Hickman business shuts its doors, Gordon will be missed the next time someone has a flat tire or needs an oil change.

Major announces his bid for City Commission

My name is Brian Major. I would like to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for Hickman City Commissioner and to also tell you a little about myself. As many of you know, I grew up right here in Hickman, Ky. I am 33 years old and a graduate of Fulton County High School. Following high school I enlisted in the United States Air Force as a Munitions Technician. After honorably serving our great nation for 6 years, both here at home and abroad, I chose to return to Hickman and continue the family agriculture tradition. My wife, Kim, and I have been married for almost 7 years and have one daughter, Taylor, who just started her first year of kindergarten at Fulton County Elementary School.

My family and I plan to continue to call Hickman our home. With that being said, it is with utmost importance that we look to the future to ensure that there is a place for our future generations to call home, just as I have. I believe that as a City Commissioner, I will be able to do my part to make Hickman a better place to live for the present residents and our future generations that follow.

STATE TOURNAMENT BOUND - Fulton County High School will be represented when the Kentucky State All-A Classic Golf Tournament is held in September. Pilots Senior golfer Ryne Choate (second from left) posted the second lowest score of the First Region All-A Classic last Friday, during 18-holes of play at the Silos Country Club in McCracken County. Choate's 3-over-par 75 was one shot behind tournament winner James Boone (second from right) of Murray High School. The two players received automatic bids to the State Tournament, which will take place in Somerset on Saturday, Sept. 6th. Shown following the presentation of tournament medals is (l-r) Pilots coach Steve Coulson, Choate, Boone and Murray High coach Nick Newcomb.

State berth, district win for Pilots golf

It was a big week for the Fulton County Pilots golf team, opening the season with a big district win on the road, and a state tournament trip for an All-A Classic qualifier.

First Region All-A Classic - (Silos Country Club in McCracken County)

Fulton County golfer Ryne Choate knew he had two chances left in a quest to make the State Tournament in a sport he has played for the Pilots since the 8th grade.

And now the Senior player has accomplished a goal for himself and his school.

Choate turned in a 3-over-par-75 for the 18 hole event last Friday, which was the second lowest of the 34 player field, and only one shot behind the tournament winner, James Boone, of Murray High.

With the stellar day on the course, Choate earned one of the two qualifying spots representing the First Region at the All-A Classic in Somerset.

"I played good today, everything was going good," said Choate following the tournament.

"I was focused and concentrating on nothing but trying to hit every shot good. I hit the ball well on my drives and was able to make

Ingram welds partnership with ATC

Charlotte Smith

"Ultimately the goal is to keep the kids here in our area," stated Duane Grimmitt with Ingram Barge. Ingram has locations all over, including one in Columbus, Ky., and finding qualified, certified welders to hire from this area has been a dream of Ingram's for a while. In the U.S. there is a 200,000 man shortage in the welding field.

"A little over a year ago we began working with Kenny Wilson when he was superintendent of Hickman County Schools," added Grimmitt. "After several meetings and some planning we are now partnering with the Fulton County Area Technology Center (ATC) and their welding program."

While in education Wilson was looking at it from that aspect, learning. Now, as he prepares to become Judge/Executive of Hickman County, he is looking at it from an economic stand point, too.

Combining education and economic development is part of this new partnership that both Ingram and the ATC hopes will last for many years to come.

"Wilson was a huge asset," added Dallas Pruitt, a Hickman County resident, and welding teacher at the ATC. "He fostered the relationship between the ATC and Ingram."

There are currently eleven students in the welding class, which is now based on a curriculum created with the assistance of Ingram. It is a year-long program with at least one hour of daily welding instruction for seven students from Hickman County, three from Fulton County and one from Fulton City.

"A different certified welder, like Doug Clark, from Ingram works with the students every Wednesday," added Grimmitt. "We want them to receive knowledge from as many welders as we can."

Safety is one of the biggest areas being addressed. "That is my number one job," Pruitt said. "To keep them safe and to make sure they are learning the safety precautions, too."

Another facet being taught through this newly formed partnership is marine welding. "Our welders work on old rusty metal which has been in the water for years," Grimmitt noted. "It is a different world and we need them to understand that aspect of marine welding."

Recently Ingram hired two new employees who are graduates of the ATC. "We just hired two new

Senior Spirit

By Charlotte Smith

Senior citizens are always looking for ways to add healthy nutrients into their daily food intake, without increasing calories. One way to do this is by drinking infused waters, which is also a great way to stay hydrated.

Infused waters are made by adding fresh fruit to a pitcher of water, setting it in the refrigerator for a period of time, approximately 4 hours or more. You can even infuse waters overnight in the fridge or even 24 hours.

By doing this, you are allowing the nutrients to leach out of the fruit directly into the water. Some nutritionists estimate that you get as much as 20% of the vitamin content of freshly squeezed fruit juice, all without the extra calories or fructose.

After infusing your water, remove the ingredients and store the remaining water in the fridge for up to three or four days. Taking the fruit and herbs out of the water will prevent the fruit from decomposing in the water and creating floaters.

Another added benefit to drinking infused waters is the antioxidants you get from them. Fruits are naturally rich in antioxidants, so you'll also be consuming a variety of naturally occurring antioxidants when you drink infused water. Basically, it's like making your own "vitamin water" but without the cost or hidden ingredients. Teas such as green tea or chamomile are also antioxidant-rich, so adding tea to your recipes just adds to the goodness.

It is recommended that you remove the rind from your fruit before infusing. Or, do not infuse fruits with rinds for over four hours. If you infuse lemon slices with rinds for three days, your water will be too bitter to even sip!

Keeping your infused water refrigerated. Cold temperatures keep fruit – and all foods – fresh. Don't forget to use your own eyeballs and nose. If your infused water looks or smells, weird after a few days, do not drink it.

For both flavor and health reasons, it is best to use filtered water. Either bottled or from an under-the-sink filtration system or even a pitcher filter.

If you are experimenting with a new recipe, use a glass jar so that you can make the most variations of a recipe. Infused water pitchers are ideal if you want to make a big batch of infused water to keep for a few days in your fridge.

Weekly activities at the Senior Center include Monday, Aug. 25: 10:30 - Fishing Rodeo - Vonciel Leyhuc; Tuesday, Aug. 10:30 - Exercise - Vonciel Leyhuc; Wednesday, Aug. 27: 10:15 - LifeLine Home Care - Trish Polsgrove - B/P Clinic, 11:30 - 12:30 - Chamber of Commerce - Veterans Artifacts; Thursday, Aug. 28: 10:30 - Pulse Oxygen - Vonciel Leyhuc; Friday, Aug. 29: 11:30 - Bingo.

Genealogical Society to meet in Fulton August 21

The Fulton County Genealogical Society will meet on Thursday, Aug. 21, at noon at The Keg Restaurant in Fulton. The guest speaker will be Mr. Berry Craig, a professor of history at West Kentucky Community and Technical College (WKCTC) in Paducah. Mr. Craig holds a master's degree in both, history and journalism from Murray State University and teaches American, European and Kentucky history at WKCTC, where he has been on the faculty since 1989.

Mr. Craig is also a veteran journalist and from 1976 to 1989, he was a feature writer and columnist for the Paducah Sun-Democrat and Paducah Sun newspapers.

From 1989 to 2008, he wrote "Kentucky Backroads," a twice-a-month column for the Associate Press in Kentucky. The column focused on state history, folklore and politics and appeared in Kentucky's daily newspapers, including the Louisville Courier-Journal, Lexington Herald-Leader and the Kentucky Post.

In 1991, Mr. Craig was the recipient of the Phelps Award for Outstanding Teaching at WKCTC. In 2002, he received The Richard H. Collins Award from the Kentucky Historical Society and in 2011, earned the Jesse Stuart Media Award from the Kentucky School Media Association.

Mr. Craig has authored articles for the Kentucky Encyclopedia and has written book reviews for the Register of the Kentucky Historical Society and the Filson Club History Quarterly.

Books that Mr. Craig has written are "True Tales of Ole-Time Kentucky Politics: Bombast, Bourbon and Burgoon" in 2009, "Hidden History of Kentucky in the Civil War" in 2010, "Hidden History of Kentucky Soldiers", and "Hidden History of Western Kentucky in 2011, and "Kentucky Confederates: Secessions, Civil War, and the Jackson Purchase" in 2014.

Bring a friend and join us for lunch. Visitors are welcome.

A WILDERNESS VOICE

by Tom Hoskins

WARS. French and Indian War, Revolutionary War, Spanish American War, WWI, WWII, Vietnam, Afghanistan, Iraq, Korea and numerous other military encounters. Peace efforts, treaties, conferences, elections, billions of dollars, the loss of thousands of lives haven't changed anything and sadly, it won't.

Wars began with the first family. Cain killed Abel, his brother, and the world has been fighting and killing one another every since. It is a problem of the human heart. "Ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars...nation shall rise against nation...then shall the end come" (Matthew 24:6, 7, 14).

Shall we then make every effort to prevent wars and pursue peace? Certainly. "Follow peace with all men...let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it" (Hebrews 12:14, I Peter 3:11). However, there is no peace for men until they make "peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1). It is evident that is not going to happen with all men, so war will continue and grow worse until Jesus returns in power and glory. "Even so, come, Lord Jesus" (Rev. 22:20).

Services were held August 15 at Strong Funeral Home in Hickman with Rev. Henry Callison officiating. Burial followed in the Hickman City Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Phillip Williams, Chris Williams, Stephen Williams, Scotty Williams, Keith Williams and Tyler Dunn.

KSP charges Mayfield's Hayes in suspicious death of his father

(Mayfield, KY) – A Mayfield man has been charged after the suspicious death of his father.

Just after 9 a.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 13, Kentucky State Police (KSP) received a 911 call from a residence on Greg Street in Graves County. The caller, Terry Hayes, stated that he arrived home to find his father, Bailey Hayes, deceased. Troopers and detectives arrived at the residence to conduct a death investigation. Investigators soon determined the death to be suspicious and requested an autopsy to be performed. An autopsy of Bailey Hayes was performed on Thursday, Aug. 14, at the Western Kentucky Regional Medical Examiner's Office in Madisonville.

As a result of the autopsy and evidence at the scene of the death, State Police Detectives executed a search warrant at the Hayes residence. Additional items of evidence were collected which lead to the development of Terry Hayes as a suspect in the death of his father. On Thursday evening (Aug. 14), detectives located, interviewed and subsequently arrested 44-year-old Terry Hayes. Hayes was charged with one count of Manslaughter 1st Degree. He was lodged in the Graves County Jail. The investigation is continuing by Detective John Sims with KSP.

City Commissions have, at times in the past, taken a "top-down" approach to the day-to-day decision-making without always complete openness and accountability. It is my concern, that city leaders have a tendency to decide what "they" think is best for the community then attempt to convince the citizens to support those decisions. It is my belief, that as elected officials the community has chosen them to be their voice in city government. City officials should, therefore, have a close working relationship with the citizens they represent. In working together on all sides of an issue "we" can find the most beneficial solution.

Other issues we are facing are community growth, and our current financial and employment statuses. I will support aggressively recruiting new industry, and actively work with current industries to ensure they have a future in our community. I will not support any unnecessary spending or projects. In the Air Force, I participated in a training course called "LEAN" that all supervisors were required to take. Basically, the concept was how to "do more with less". I feel that I can take parts of this experience and apply them toward my decisions pertaining to the expenditures and processes of the city. Unfortunately, we are experiencing a population decrease and along with that a direct decrease in overall revenue coming into the city. It is crucial that our funding be spent in a way that we can get the most benefit from every dollar and still provide quality services to the residents.

In closing, I will listen to your concerns through conversations or town hall meetings. You will be heard. I have heard many members of our community comment that we need more young people getting involved. I will bring new experiences and insight to city governance. Hickman has a proud heritage and is a place that I am honored to call home. I want to be your voice in our City Commission and help Hickman secure a brighter future. Thank you in advance for your vote and support in the November election.

Missing Man Table Ceremony

"As you gathered today, you may have noticed a table, and I want to call your attention to its purpose—it is reserved to honor, our missing comrades in arms. Set for six, the empty places represent Americans, still missing from each of the five services: Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Coast Guard, and civilians. This Honors Ceremony, symbolizes that they are still with us, here in spirit. Some here, were very young, when they were sent into combat; however, all Americans, should never forget, the brave men and women who answered our nation's call, and served the cause of freedom, in a special way. I would like to ask you for a moment of silent prayer, as the Honor Guard, place the five service covers and a civilian cap on each empty plate," stated Jim Phelps.

He also explained the meaning of the items, on this special table.
*The table is round—to show our everlasting concern for our missing service Members

*The tablecloth is white—symbolizing the purity of their motives, when answering the call of duty.

*The single red rose, displayed in a vase, reminds us of the life of each of the missing, and their loved ones, and friends of these Americans, who keep the faith, awaiting answers.

*The vase is tied with a red ribbon, the symbol of our continued determination, to account for our missing.

*A slice of lemon, on the bread plate, is to remind us of the bitter fate of those captured, and missing in a foreign land.

*A pinch of salt, symbolized the tears endured by those missing, and their families, who seek answers.

*The Bible, represents the strength, gained through faith, to sustain those lost from our country, founded as one nation under God.

*The glasses will now be inverted—to symbolize their inability, to share this day's toast.

*The chairs are empty—they are missing.

Now let us now raise our water glasses in a toast to honor Americas POW/MIAs and to the success of our efforts to account for each and every one of them.

Please stand as we render honors by playing Taps.

GET IN THE HOLE - Fulton County's Jarett West watches his par putt head to the cup during the regional All-A Classic last week. The Junior golfer posted a 41 on the front nine and 53 on the back nine to finish at 94 for the day.

FAIRWAY SHOT - Fulton County's Madison Uzzle prepares to hit this shot to the flag in the background, during district play last week at Carlisle County. Uzzle posted a nine hole score of 46, as the Pilots claimed a team win in their first regular season match at Dogwood Hills Country Club.

some big putts. The course was in good shape, but it's always a challenge to play in this (All-A Tournament) because there are so many schools and really good players. Last year I finished in the Top-10, and when I finished on number 18, I thought I may have a score close to the top, but I was really surprised that I finished second. I was really happy."

Choate had to feel from the start that the day could be his, after sinking a 30-foot chip shot for par on hole No.1, followed by a 25-foot putt for par on No.2.

The Pilot golfer then concluded the front nine with a 2-over-par-38, which he bettered with a 1-over-par-37 on the back nine.

Fulton County Coach Steve Coulson was able to watch Choate play most of the 18-holes on the day, and was ecstatic after his player was named the regional runner-up and state tournament qualifier.

"I'm not sure if this is the first time a golfer from Fulton County is going to the State, but this is unbelievable," said Coulson after the tournament medal ceremony. "Ryne shot this 75 on a real tough golf course, playing from the tee boxes on the back of each hole, with only five players recording scores in the 70's. He was able to hit the ball long, keep it in the fairways and make big shots. This is really special and I am just so proud of him."

Coulson and Choate will now make the trek to Somerset on Saturday, Sept. 6th to participate in the Touchtone Energy All-A State Tournament against Class-A qualifiers from all 16 Regions.

Also for the Pilots in the All-A Tournament, Jarett West finished the front nine with a 5-over-par-41, and concluded with a 94, the same as teammate Madison Uzzle.

The finish placed the two Pilots in a tie for 25th place.

Fulton County at Carlisle County - (Dogwood Hills Country Club)

The Pilots took their first regular season match of the year, playing a solid team round of golf against the Comets.

The Fulton County group of Ryne Choate, Jarett West and Madison Uzzle posted a combined score of 133 for the nine hole course, while the host Comets turned in a total of 158.

Choate turned in the low score of the match and was named medalist with a 4-over-par-40.

Uzzle posted a 46 on the day, while West finished with a 47.

Pilots Coach Steve Coulson said he was very happy with his team's effort on the road.

"First of all this is a short course, but very difficult. If you make a mistake, you are either in the rough, in trees or out of bounds. While we don't have enough to qualify for a team score, our top three scores were lower than their score, so we took the match. Each of the guys had trouble on one of the holes today, so take that away and Ryne's 40 is not a bad score for this course, with Madison and Jarett playing well."

Ingram Partners with ATC

employees. One from Hickman County and one from Fulton County," Grimmitt said. "We will benefit even more as we solidify this partnership."

With a tight budget at the ATC, Ingram has donated sheet metal for the students to weld on. "They even donated welding rods and are helping cover some of the cost of our gases that we use in this program," added Pruitt.

"This partnership gives us another opportunity to show students what they do here has a real impact on their future," stated ATC Principal Terry Sullivan. "It is our job to make these types of partnerships so we can provide our students with the type of training they need to successfully enter the workforce."

Tyler Westbrooks, a Hickman County senior, has already learned how to lay flat beads or a 1G position consistently. "This is my first year of welding and it is something that has always interested me," Westbrooks commented. "I want to learn the different ways to weld and how to do it better."

Raised on a farm, Westbrooks likes working with his hands and there are plenty of opportunities for him to weld on the family farm. "I like working with metal and so does my dad," he said. "Being able to make something out of scrap metal will be a benefit to me."

Westbrooks already sees this experience as a great opportunity. "If you want to know exactly what you need to do and how to do it, it is a great opportunity, especially if you want to work in the welding field."

Now in his second year of welding, Travis Crumble, enjoys it because he loves working with his hands. Crumble, a senior at Fulton County, is looking to become an engineer after receiving his post secondary education, but already knows why it is important for him to learn the skill of welding.

"I like to use my knowledge to build something," Crumble said. "I do want to be an engineer, but taking this class at the ATC helps me broaden my range of skills so I am not tied down to just one career field."

Crumble has also taken Auto Mechanics and Carpentry at the ATC. "I have been able to help build a bike rack and learning how to weld proficiently is important to me," added Crumble.

Before graduating and leaving the program Westbrooks, Crumble and the other students will also spend some time with Chanlor Culkin. Culkin, in Human Resources for Ingram, will be going over interview skills, how to dress when going on a job interview and other pertinent information.

There are no guarantees that the students who complete the welding program will be employed at Ingram in Columbus, but going through it will be an added plus for those students. In this area welders can start out making $14 to $15 an hour. If they are willing to travel, they could make anywhere from $125,000 to $150,000 a year.

"Ingram has helped our school tremendously," reiterated

Sullivan. "We are really proud of this partnership and the kids are excited to be able to impress employers in this area."

"It is a partnership we want to see last a long time and we are glad to be a part of it," concluded Grimmitt. "We all benefit if the students who graduate from these area schools are able to stay here and make a good living. It benefits us all."

Sports In Kentucky For the Hickman Courier

By Bob Watkins

Calm before the (football) storm.

Timing. Army field officers, director at the local funeral parlor, sundry real estate and insurance agents aside, few careerists understand the precise value of timing better than a ball coach.

In Lexington last week, Mark Stoops waited for warm breezes off the Bahamas to turn; fan buzz for Kentucky's basketball team to downgrade to a dull roar, and media to move roundball mania to rightful place in August – below-the-fold or back on page three.

Stoops checked his watch, grabbed a news cycle from the merry-go-round and announced Kentucky's starting quarterback, Patrick Towles.

When high noon comes for Tennessee Martin August 30 at Commonwealth Stadium, a big ole Kentuckian – 6-foot-5, 238-pounder – will succeeds Alabamian Jalen Whitlow and Californian Max Smith.

May UK fans presume "A Kentuckian at quarterback, we'll be better?"

This week, with Planet Football back in proper orbit, the August countdown and media exposure resumes.

✓ First out of the box, Western Kentucky opens C-USA on a Friday night. For fire-em-up purposes and Big Mo, the home opening Hilltoppers are a touchdown-plus underdog to Bowling Green. Grrr.

✓ Next day Kentucky's game will be "OK, Stoops, let's see what ya got." followed by the proverbial "do we need to line up for Big Blue Madness tickets or wait?"

✓ Rounding out Labor Day weekend, Louisville gets Miami in Cardinal Stadium for a Monday night prime timer. Second coming of fallen angel, images of contrite Bobby Petrino.

TIMING II

Big Blue Bahamas. Kentucky brought home five wins and a (coaches) win at the end.

Just what the doctor ordered.

A two platoon to dazzle then run competition to exhaustion and submission. Included a comeuppance in game six, letting coaches bring home a prize too. A video titled perhaps, "See, you guys got work to do."

✓ Alex Poythress's play reflected joy and maturity UK fans appreciate from three-year college guy. Derek Willis, on any college team except one he's on, is a starter.

✓ Rookies Karl Anthony Towns and Tyler Ulis are special. Bluegrass State style players – savvy, unselfish, relentless, skip the showboat and feel the game.

Jersey numbers. If Power Five has its way, makes its pay-to-play rules, popularity of Towns number 12 and Ulis number 3 could boom into big walk-around-cash ... and three-and-done.

Timing.

Meanwhile, all the world may be a stage, but only the cunning know how to seize it, bask in glow of The Solo. Produced by ESPN, written and directed by and starring John Calipari.

In Nassau, ESPN shamelessly handed Calipari a six day selfie. When Jay Bilas wasn't doing straight man for Cal-speak, Kentucky's coach was doing play-by-play and color, cheerleading (recruiting), working a camera or getting face time atop the bleachers alongside assistant Tony Barbee.

Real stars of this show? Kentucky's two-platoon Wildcats.

Teams on UK's schedule will quake. The tsunami is coming. None on the schedule, I can see, should beat Kentucky without help. Help?

✓ Playing time unhappiness.

✓ The Is. Injury or illness.

✓ Too much media and fan attention.

✓ Coach whine (on court) at game officials.

✓ Paranoia. Calipari's lower-expectation-tweet warning last week? Sabotage. Sabotage?

✓ Jay Bilas. ESPN's college hoops piper fell in love in Nassau. His swoon over Kentucky leaves one to wonder about Bilas welcome when he shows up in Durham, Ann Arbor, Syracuse, Louisville and others?

✓ Bilas' UK locker room talk to players was remarkable. A seminar in truth, possibility and reality. Maybe part II will deal with "... when the ball stops bouncing."

KID TO WATCH DEPT.

Brent Bach was a skinny 6-1 shootist for Augusta High school's Panthers last winter. Averaged 31.2 points a game and named second team all-state.

Next, Bach will play at Belarmine U. for Scotty Davenport. Kid's numbers beg a visit to attitude. In a press release, here is Bach's approach. "I want to improve ... I know I have a long way to go. I have to get bigger and work on my passing. There are several really good big guys on the team ... I want to be able work with them and make them happy, too."

Context. Thousands of Kentucky kids have taken the right and realistic attitude to college, one said this: "I could run, jump and hustle, put the ball on the floor. I got out on the break, filled the lanes."

Was 64 years ago, Kid's name was Cliff Hagan. Pure Kentucky. And so it goes.

The Fulton County Jr. Pilots found the going tough in their first football game of the season last week at home.

The Pilots hosted a talented group from Heath, who jumped out to a 22-0 halftime lead, enroute to a 36-6 win.

Coach James Bridges' team was able to put points on the board only one time in the game, this coming on a two yard run from C.J. Smith in the third quarter.

The Jr. Pilots came into the game with 31 players on the roster, twelve of those in the eighth grade.

Coach Bridges said he still has a young team, with nine sixth graders and ten seventh graders.

"We are looking at a new quarterback, and just about everything new on this team," said Bridges. "We are returning some experience on the line with Mason Eakes and Jake Mayo, those guys are my return players. I lost alot to the high school from last season."

Bridges said having to remold an offense for this season has been a task for the coaching staff in summer practices.

"This quarterback position is going to be the toughest spot. I have some new, young players who will work there. It's just going to be a learning experience."

The Middle School team has a tough schedule facing them this season that includes Fulton City, Ballard County and Calloway County.

"It's going to be real tough. We are young and trying to get them motivated to stick with football. A lot of my players are now lifting weights and they are getting better. We'll give it all we have and try to bet better each week."
